GRENADA, MISS., THURSDAY, SEPT. 9, 1937

American Legion Off To New York

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 9.—Mississippi's five-boat Legion caravan to the National American Legion convention in New York City, leaving here today, will receive further national recognition when they participate in the Virginia Capital Bicentennial Commission Celebration at Richmond, Va., Sept. 14.

An invitation has been extended Miss Elaine Russell, "Miss American Legion," Governor Hugh L. White's personal representative on the flotilla, by Fred V. McVane, director general of the Virginia state delegation to participate in the affair.

The state caravan is scheduled to stop in Richmond on its 4,000 mile route to the National Legion convention, and will pay respects of Governor White to the Governor of Virginia.

The Virginians plan to greet the Mississippians at the city line with ceremony and are formulating other pleasantries for their day's stay.

The state delegation will be headed by Major Smylie Shipman, of Jackson, vice-commander of the department of Mississippi and past post commander of Henry Graves Post No. 1, of Jackson. Major Shipman will represent State Commander Adrian Boyd, of Clarksdale, on the sixteen-state trek.

Four bands have been officially designated to represent the state at the national convention, including the Jackson drum and bugle corps of 44 members, the Tupelo American Legion band with 50 pieces, the Legion-sponsored Greenwood High School band of 105 pieces, and the Gulfport drum and bugle corps of the sons of the American Legion.

Miss Russell, petite Oxford brunette, will march at the head of the caravan in New York, and will accompany the state caravan on its extensive tour.

Leaving Jackson this morning, the five-boat flotilla will be honored at Meridian at a breakfast given by the Meridian Chamber of Commerce.

Other stops scheduled en route to the convention include: Montgomery, Ala.; Atlanta, Georgia; Columbia, South Carolina; Raleigh, North Carolina; Richmond, Va.; Annapolis, Maryland and Trenton, New Jersey. Arrival in New York is scheduled Sept. 17.

Returning to Mississippi, the flotilla will get under way Sept. 23, with overnight stops scheduled at Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Detroit, two nights, Indianapolis, Louisville, Nashville and Birmingham. Arrival in Jackson is planned for October 2.

The goodwill caravan will portray the old and new Mississippi, and will depict its history, recreation, dairying, cotton growing and industrial development.

Legion auxiliaries have completed selection of the personnel to accompany the flotilla on its journey.

The Delta Cotton Queen, selected at the Clarksdale Cotton Festival, will occupy the Cotton Float.

Miss Wood Retained

J. K. M.

Miss Lottie Wood was retained for another year. Her work as Home Economics Agent was highly commended by the board. We congratulate the women of the county, the farm mothers who are not talking as much about living at home as they are actually practicing. Every time Mr. Farmer sits down at the table he sees food raised on his own farm and much of it must be preserved by the wife. Many tedious days does she spend in the summer season over a hot stove making preserves and canning vegetables and fruits for the time when winter comes.

Prices for what the farmers buy are high therefore it is good business to buy as little as possible.

Services To Be Held At 1st Baptist Church

There will be services at the First Baptist Church Sunday at the usual hour. The visiting preacher will be the Rev. D. H. Hall, of New Albany.

It is hoped that a large audience will greet Rev. Hall.

Mrs. J. B. Robinson Visits Grenada

Mrs. John B. Robinson was a visitor to Grenada this week, leaving for Water Valley Wednesday morning. She will return and go to Calhoun City. She is one of the two efficient women legislators. The other is Mrs. Horace Stansell, of Sunflower county. They have seats together.

She has several counties in this section under her direction. She is with the State Public Welfare Board of which Mr. Bond is head. With the limited funds at hand they are doing a splendid work. The better condition of the treasury of the state will enable them to do more for the aged than up to now.

County Agent J. L. Cooley Reappointed

J. K. M.

Mr. J. L. Cooley was reappointed as County Agent for another year. His re-election will meet with general approval of the farmers of the county. The board made the comment that no agent had ever done more for the county.

Mr. Cooley has a very definite plan for agriculture and farmers should rally to his aid.

One thing uppermost in his mind is the development of the live stock industry. The land he feels is well adapted to pasturage in the hill section and we have good markets at our doors.

He will also work more diligently to create interest in the use of one variety of cotton.

He also has a plan for soil conservation work, terracing the slopes and planting of pasture grasses, especially legumes. Also he has in mind a steady improvement in the planting of winter legumes and will foster the idea of preventing the stock from running at large during the season when winter cover crops should be given a chance to grow. A county agent is what the farmers make him. He cannot do anything unassisted. A fellow must want help and seek. He is ready to render you a service. If you complain that he does you no good, just take stock and ascertain whether you have ever asked him for aid.

We congratulate Mr. Cooley, we congratulate Grenada county.

Game Laws To Be Enforced

J. K. M.

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 9.—With the dove hunting season opening September 15, the State Game and Fish Commission has placed a full set of wardens and deputies in the field for enforcement of the conservation laws and to assist sportsmen.

Ben M. Stevens, of Richton, secretary of the commission, said the field forces included in addition to the regular list of 91 game wardens approximately 250 deputies.

"Believing that more violations occur prior to opening of the season, the commission decided to put the men in the field in advance of the opening," secretary Stevens said.

"The commission received splendid cooperation last year from hunters and other sportsmen, and we anticipate the same spirit this year," he said. "The commission, in addition to enforcing the game laws, will also assist the sportsmen in whatever manner it can."

Secretary Stevens recalled that the commission had endeavored to secure the entire month of September for dove hunting, but a split season had been put in effect by the United States Biological Survey. Under the split season, the first half operates from September 15 through October 1, with the second season from November 20 to January 15.

The present hunting license is good until September 30, after which new permits must be secured at the rate of $1.25 for county privileges or $3.25 for statewide privileges.

Hunting of squirrels begins Oct. 1, when new licenses must be in possession of the hunters. It continues through December 31.

The dove daily and possession bag limit is 15, with squirrels 7 a day, and not more than 16 in possession.

Bratton's Sermon

J. K. Morrison

Grenada has had as her visitor for the week Bishop Theodore G. Bratton, Mississippi's outstanding spiritual leader.

It has been a benediction to those who have attended the Mission to hear his instruction and the spiritual messages that he has delivered.

I have attended the night services. I give you an outline of one heard Monday night.

One who hears him cannot but have a quickened conscience and refrain from making a new resolve in his heart to lead a better life and to put into practice the principles of Jesus whose gospel he preaches.

The topic for Sunday night was the New Man. Said the Bishop Monday evening, the fundamental meaning of sin is doing those things which separate us from God. It is sin that separated us from God. Stumbling is a personal act. To sin, my will must consent; when you permit self to do wrong it becomes sin. Sin is the act of a person, the person committing is responsible. There is no one who does not commit sin.

The Bishop stated that once one of his wardens told him he wanted him to preach hell fire, not in the literal sense for he pictured hell as a fire that burns within consuming the conscience rather than a fire that burns the flesh.

"What shall a man win if he gains the whole world and loses his own soul? We shall not cease growing sorrowful for that which separates us from God. There may be a hidden dishonesty but sin finds us out. Friends lose confidence in us and what a world to live in if there are no friends. He says that all human beings crave love and friendship. If you joke away your relationship with God life loses all its sweetness."

"My approach to God, says the Bishop, is entirely personal. What God relies on to separate us from sin is love. When you become conscious of Almighty God you cannot stay away from Him. You will ask his forgiveness, for the burden of his teachings is love. His purpose is to send the Holy Spirit that rebukes, convinces, convicts and re-proves. The person needs to be convinced on the inside. If you have self satisfaction and conceit the Holy Spirit can do nothing with you. Until we are convinced of sin there can be no growth, no influence can better the situation."

"Everybody is doing it, is a common expression."

"A man will form a new resolve that he is going to make his life count for something in the community. The thing being done that is a sin he will stop. But he goes out among his friends and they pat him on the back, make him feel like he is a great fellow and he weakens."

"The young lady who spends her time in idleness knowing nothing but pleasure does likewise. She makes a new resolve. She goes among her friends, they appeal to her vanity making her feel that she is the life of the party and her good resolve amounts to nothing."

"Conviction of sin pulls away the veil of conceit. The acts of every day life are freighted with importance."

"Work out your own salvation in fear and trembling. Put a period down at the close of each day. There is nothing you can do to change a single act of a day. Every solitary act is a finished product, you cannot change the material that goes into it."

"We must see ourselves as we are. My life is the product of my own action. Every twenty-four hours I can turn over a new page. Each day that you face you can live a new life."

"God will judge you by the standard of Jesus Christ. How different are our standards of today as compared to 25 years ago, but God's standard is the same."

"What would be the guiding principles of Jesus Christ if he lived in Grenada today? Many persons I meet are fighting the same fight to maintain character and integrity."

"Any one can become a real Christian and be made strong if he bows to His will. We can become instruments in God's hand for the redemption of men."

A Visit to the Baptist Sunday School

J. K. Morrison

I have had it in mind for some time to go visiting to some of the other Sunday School classes.

I was passing the Baptist Church last Sunday on my way to the Presbyterian Sunday School and a friend hailed me. He said, why don't you stop and visit with us? He was not proselyting, but just showing good fellowship. I took him up.

I was really surprised at the large number of Baptist men that attend Sunday School. They called the roll numbering 120 men, present 70.

The roll caller reached Dr. Aven's name. He did not answer. Mr. Perry answered about three operations on hand accounts for his absence. Before the Sunday School was over with we saw him on the back row.

Old fellow Coffeyville, Jay Gore, the Corner Drug Store man, came in and sat near me. A few minutes later somebody came after Jay, but he filled his prescription and returned. Single out these names to show you that these men who are often needed on Sunday go to Sunday School. They make it no excuse that they might have duty to perform.

You could look all around you and see men prominent in the business affairs of this city there to lend their influence and to say, by their presence, that they want to know more about living life in a topsy turvy world and to set a standard for the young of the community.

Mr. Johnnie Ben Perry taught the class. He first told of the Grand Canyon that he visited on a recent trip and described it as a result of erosion over the century. A sight so awe inspiring that no painter who has ever visited can reproduce an accurate picture of Nature and the elements.

One thought of the lesson only we can reproduce and that is one that said the command was to leave the gleanings of the fields to the poor. Mr. Perry said that since those days we have a new plan, organized charity, that better suits modern conditions.

The class showed that it is trying in practice that which they preach as a worthy case that might need help had been investigated and recommendation made as to just what should be done about it. He thought in this busy cotton picking season that the best way to keep the wolf from the door is to go to the cotton fields, pick at so much per hundred.

We do not know what Sunday, but next we are making a visit with the Methodists. J. B. Perry, Jr., made the suggestion that this might extend to members of the classes to have a small committee each Sunday to visit other classes and show the spirit of brotherhood that exists. Pretty good idea.

Clarion And News Have Consolidated

J. K. M.

The Clarion-Ledger and the Jackson Daily News have consolidated. They have lived neighbors for many years. They have both worked earnestly and enthusiastically to help make Jackson grow. Mighty few papers located in the same city have worked more harmoniously.

I have known the leading spirits of both papers since 1907. I have had many favors shown me by both papers. When I went to Jackson to take charge of Belhaven in he traces my life from a boy on a South Carolina plantation to the present moment as I stand before you? That is the question for each individual to consider."

P. S. Quoting a sermon the next morning is no small sized job. I hope that I have done the Bishop no injustice in failing to convey the meaning he had in mind. Just doing the best I know how, as I know there are many who did not hear him will read and get in a small measure the spirit of the sermon.

If you are not a member of the Episcopal Church come and hear the Bishop if your experience is like mine you will find a hearty welcome. I am sure that you will get an inspiration.

The Horn Family

By W. E. Boushe

In the series of articles I have been writing, I have largely confined myself to the pioneers and instances connected with early history. But occasionally the spirit moves me to take up some of the more recent additions who have contributed to making our community a finer place to live in.

And in this class one would not hesitate to place the names of J. H. Horn and family among the most worthy and deserving of praise. Mr. J. H. Horn, the subject of this article was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Horn, who emigrated first from North Carolina to Alabama, from thence to Teasdale in Tallahatchie county in 1832. They immediately set about helping in the advancement of community and providing for their children. They were worthy parents of our worthy subject and fellow townsman, Mr. J. H. Horn.

Mr. J. H. Horn was born in 1861 in the days when men were men. In his early manhood he married Miss Belle Patterson, a most excellent lady of a Godly family. She was the daughter of a Methodist preacher, who stood high in councils of those who love the Lord. Mrs. Belle Patterson Horn's mother was just the mother for so fine a lady. Mrs. Horn was, as Mr. Horn a native of Tallahatchie county. Mr. and Mrs. Horn moved to Grenada in 1903 that their children might have more advantages in a bigger field. They left behind them in Tallahatchie county a host of friends and a good reputation, making new friends and a reputation here. Mr. Horn had held political positions in Tallahatchie county. They were church leaders of high standing. Mr. and Mrs. Horn are the parents of good boys, Jim and H. D. "Durroh" and five girls, all who are an honor to their parents. Durroh is now serving his second term as circuit clerk, he has many friends. He married Miss Effie Swan of Alabama. She is a strong character a good wife and a good mother. Mr. and Mrs. Durroh Horn are the parents of three lovable boys, Durroh, Clyde, and Robert.

Jim Horn, another son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Horn, Sr., also is a very popular young man. He is engaged in the cotton business. His wife, formerly Miss Peggy Floyd, is a sweet and accomplished lady. They are the parents of a very attractive and pretty little daughter.

Of the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Horn Miss Lizzie needs no introduction to Grenada county audience so bright are her laurels. Miss Lizzie has been prominently identified with the Grenada public schools for thirty years and diligent and painstaking have added a fairer page to the history of the school. Her place would be hard to fill.

Another daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horn is Mrs. Lelia Welker, a fine Christian lady of outstanding characteristics. Her husband, Mr. L. C. Welker is well known, has many friends has identified himself with all public movements for the betterment of the community. They have a fine boy.

Another daughter, Mrs. Thelma Paige, has all the noble characteristics of the other members of the Horn family. Her husband, Mr. Paige is a salesman and a polished gentleman. His friends are legion. They are also the parents of a fine young son.

Two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Horn live elsewhere, Mrs. Verna Nesbitt, of New Albany and Irene McCamack, of Memphis. But they also run true to the honorable tradition of the Horn family. The Horn family have been for generations pillars in the Methodist Church. Mr. Horn on coming to Grenada took over the Commercial Appeal agency which is now held by his son, Durroh. He also served creditably as mayor and alderman of the town and in each place he made many friends. And one only has to look into his face as to read honesty and integrity and to know any human mistake he might make would not be from the heart.

Mr. and Mrs. Horn now live in their comfortable home on College Street, a happy gathering place for their children and their grandchildren and to their friends the latch string is always on the outside.

Many more years and best wishes to you, Mr. and Mrs. Horn.

Clifford Patterson To Open School of Music

Clifford Patterson will soon open the Grenada School of Music. Mr. Patterson is a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and is accredited by the state of Mississippi. He has done work in vaudeville, lyceum, musical comedy and light opera and has appeared on radio programs.

He is prepared to teach all types of music and dancing and invites you to visit his studio which is located on the second floor of the Patterson building one door east of Trusty's.

Cooperation Urged In Fire Prevention

Grenada county citizens should give due consideration to an appeal by Grenada County Forest Ranger, Jimmie Shaw, for public co-operation in the prevention of forest fires during the coming fall and winter season. The heavy crop of pine mast with which nature has blessed the state this year should be given an opportunity to reseed and provide new growth of young pines in uncultivated and cut-over land.

Burning of our forests will mean that this pine seed will be destroyed and not given an opportunity to reproduce. In addition to this, young trees will be often destroyed or set back in growth. The fine climate and seasons which Mississippi enjoys makes it ideal for fast growth of pine trees, but continual burning of our woods greatly offsets this natural growth.

In past years the importance of preventing forest fires was not realized. Sawmills gave no consideration to the future and it was a case of clean cutting and moving on to new supplies. Present day industries are not mobile. They are permanent and vital to the welfare of their communities. This places a responsibility on the citizens of the community to preserve and protect the forest from fire.

Records show that a majority of fires are started carelessly by smokers, hunters, fishermen, and crews working in the timber. Do your share by cooperating with this fire prevention program.

When you light a cigarette, break the match in two and be sure it doesn't flare up. Don't toss a cigarette away. Ground it under your heel. Many forest fires are started by a cigarette carelessly tossed by the roadside from an automobile.

It may not be your land. You may not own any land, but a forest fire will indirectly affect every person in a community.

Grenada's Oldest Merchant Passes

Mr. W. F. Hallam passed away at his home in Grenada last Tuesday night and was buried Wednesday. Mr. Hallam was a pioneer merchant and Grenada's oldest merchant and business man. He began business about 50 years ago and was at the same place about 45 years.

For a long period he carried a general line of merchandise and you could find anything you wanted. The day of specialization had not come when he was at the peak of his career.

Mr. Hallam was a man of culture. He loved the association with men of information and he had much information himself gathered over a long life. Experience and observation as well as book learning make men interesting. He was a keen observer. He has been a friend of this paper over the years and few men delighted more than he in reading any article that appealed to his fancy. He was born in 1856 and his age was not far from the age of The Sentinel. He admired the great journalists and often made comment on the writings of his favorites.

He leaves a family to whom his loss and many friends who sympathize with the bereaved in the hour of their supreme loss.

A companion of 50 years will sorely miss him. That is a long, long time for two people to live together and his beloved wife will feel more, keenly than any one else his passing.

His children number five, Mrs. A. J. Snowden, of Memphis, Mrs. Grace Griffin, Detroit, Mich., Mr. Lloyd Hallam, of Memphis, Miss Hazel Hallam, of Grenada and Mr. Earl Hallam, of Grenada. His brother, T. J. Hallam survives him.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church and lived the Christian life he confessed.

Funeral services were held at the home Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 conducted by Rev. J. W. Lee, of Batesville and the Rev. E. K. Henderson, of the Central Baptist Church.

The pallbearers were: A. L. Trotman, John Milner, L. C. Welker, John Keeton, Jim Weed and Jim Bull.

Grenada will miss him and The Sentinel joins with his host of friends in extending to the bereaved family sympathy in the hour of grief.

Band Honored At Greenwood

The Grenada Band received the honor of leading the parade at the Greenwood Band Festival held there on Monday of this week. They made a splendid showing and Grenada is proud of them.

Director Roger Dallalrhide, the members of the band and the Band Mothers have worked hard to bring the band up to the standard that it is today. They deserve the whole hearted support of the citizenship of Grenada.

Greenwood put on a good program, the surrounding towns cooperated with them (some excepted) and Grenada is glad that it played its part in the program as Greenwood has always stood ready to assist Grenada in programs of like nature.

Congressman Ford To Speak Here

To Discuss Farm Legislation Before Congress.

Congressman A. L. Ford will speak to the farmers and other interested citizens of the county, at the court house at 10 o'clock a. m., on Thursday, September 16. His purpose will be to discuss farm legislation now pending before Congress and endeavor to ascertain the views of a majority of the farmers as to the kind of legislation that should be enacted so that he may present their views to committees engaged in planning and drafting farm legislation and to Congress when it convenes again.

Mr. Ford advises us that he will also be glad to see anyone else who may desire to discuss any other business with him.

By RICE PRESSGROVE, D. C.

Washington, D. C.—Unemployment is still the biggest internal problem of these United States—and neutrality the biggest foreign one. The jobless census bill passed at the close of last session has been signed by the President. It has faults—but nearly everyone agrees that it is a step in the right direction, and certainly this is the right time to get the count. More people have jobs than at the peak of '29 yet there are nearly as many people out of work as in the depth of the depression—a number equal to the total of all the boys and girls who have come to working age since '29—minus, of course, those workers who have died or grown too old.

Business, facing the most prosperous fall and winter season in our history, is trying hard to ignore unemployment. The rest of us with jobs, are trying to forget it. But permanent prosperity won't come out from around that corner until we get the five to ten million skeletons out of the national closet.

On the foreign front old man neutrality has been the thing at our heels since Napoleon and the British started squabbling a century and a quarter ago. Neutral or partisan our shipping has been stopped—our farmers and our merchants and our manufacturers have been unable to sell their wares—and we seem to be no closer to a solution now than we did when President Madison laid down the first embargo which incidentally, involved us in our second war with England. The sinews of war are not and never have been the shells and steel alone. Everything we have to sell is useful somewhere in modern warfare from mushrooms to moving pictures, from watches to wheat. But the Dove of Peace has found a temporary nesting place in Washington today even though the fight fans rub their hands with gusty anticipation of the predicted counters between new Associate Justice Black and Chief Justice Hughes whom he so often criticized from the Senate floor—and the expected clash between the President and Garner's Bloc.

There's speculation too, over the hurried homecoming of Ambassador to London Bingham with wise ones hinting that he will lose his post because he played into the hands of the British Cabinet over the Duke of Windsor abdication.

And the big guns of the tax division are already trained on the Mellon charity scheme to keep that huge fortune intact and the whisper goes around that the tie-up will drag along for years.

The republicans once more steal the show with the Virginia G. O. P. endorsing Mr. Hoover's plan for an off year Republican convention, a suggestion made without consulting ex-Governor Landon or John D. M. Hamilton. But Hamilton's job is as good as gone according to gossip and Colonel Knox is angling for the place.

Third term is still fighting words down here for though the President's mother spoke out against it, the White House mail argues the other way. But then, why wouldn't it? It takes nerve to write a man a letter telling him not to run again.

The Warehouse And Cold Storage Plant

Mr. Cooley stated that they have formed an organization to operate the warehouse and cold storage plant. He says that a car of winter cover crop would soon arrive and that a car of basis slag would also be placed in the warehouse. He stated that they must raise $1,000 to get a loan of $5,000 from the bank for cooperatives. He hoped that they would be able to open the cold storage plant to cure must in October.

PROTECTING THE TIMBER

These general rains we are having are bad for the cotton, but they are good to keep down fires in the dry woods of South Mississippi. Our timbers make an important crop, just as our cotton does.

The yellow pine of this section is largely a thing of the past, but roots for turpentine extraction are left, by the many-acre, and slash and loblolly pine will serve as our most important raw material, if we take care of them. Masonite will need increasing amounts of these pines, along with other woods timbers, and the extraction of turpentine from roots and stumps has become a widening industry.

Woods fires are like diseases that ravage the human body; they don't always kill outright; sometimes they merely weaken and lay the tree susceptible to insects and blights and high winds. Very frequently, young timber is wounded by a fire; an open sore is left on the side of the trunk, and insects enter, get to the very heart of the tree and finally kill it.

Besides this, tree growth is retarded by fires, just as human growth is retarded by disease. Any fire wound on a log will show that the growth rings before the fire were twice as big as those after the fire.

If we, as a people, mean to profit by our South Mississippi timber, then it is our job to keep the fires out.

This we conceive to be an intelligent obligation, on the part of every individual and on the part of government, local and state.—Editorial, Laurel Leader-Call, 8-27-37.

Rainbow Shower for Bride-Elect.

On Thursday afternoon, Sept. 2, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Lickfold, Sr., Miss Eleanor Lickfold entertained with a novel and beautiful rainbow shower complimenting Miss Gloria Williams, who is soon to be the bride of Mr. Bertram Bays.

The attractiveness of the home was enhanced by the artistic arrangement of a profusion of rainbow hued fall flowers.

The guests were greeted at the door by Miss Eleanor Lickfold, Mrs. James Scott, Mrs. W. H. Matthews, Mrs. F. R. Lickfold, Jr., and Miss Courtney Smith and were given paper napkins in all shades of the rainbow, and asked to make the thing they thought would be most needed by the bride. Many unusual creations were the result.

In the hall was a table with a miscellaneous assortment of articles, each guest was given pencil and paper and allowed one minute to view these articles and asked to make a list of what they saw.

Next each guest was given a part of a puzzle which completely formed a rainbow around Miss Williams' heart, her part of the puzzle. On this rainbow was found this clever riddle: "The Pot of Gold is in this room, hidden from the Bride—also the groom." Miss Williams found the pot of gold and chose Miss Lickfold to be her escort to the dining room.

The dining room had been transformed into a veritable fairyland and here was truly the rainbow, a rainbow illuminated with soft lights, casting a rosy glow over the happy assembly, and at its end the bride found her pot of gold, for in this pot of gold were many lovely gifts. Not to show too much partiality, the rainbow had cleverly concealed favors for the guests, each favor tied to a dainty rainbow streamer.

Miss Lickfold served her guests delicious ice cream, beautiful pink roses resting on frosted rose leaves, little cakes decorated with tiny pink roses, mints in rainbow colors and salted nuts.

The guests who enjoyed Miss Lickfold's hospitality were Misses Gloria Williams, Virginia Echols, Martha Hoffa, Martha Vance Smith, Constance Thompson, Lucy Webb Sharp, Peggy Spain, Alice Giffie, Rachel Todd, Mary Ida Sharp, Mary Louise West, Frances Brunson, Joyce Matthews, Sara Parks, Catherine Ross, Annie Anderson, Elizabeth Patterson, Nancy Nelson Granberry, Alice Lee Triplett, Elizabeth Wilkins, Grace Cowles Horton and Mrs. M. 20th Century Held Its First Meeting of New Year Tuesday

The Twentieth Century Club held its first meeting of the New Year Tuesday afternoon September seventh, in the home of Mrs. J. B. Perry, with Mrs. F. A. Stacy as co-hostess.

Numerous bowls of lovely fall garden roses were used as decoration.

The following new officers were seated:

President, Mrs. R. F. Matthews; vice-president, Mrs. R. W. Sharp; recording secretary, Mrs. H. J. Ray; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. A. Penn; treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Prose.

The program this year will be along lines of Drama, Music and Art, and the club members look forward to a very interesting year's study.

The subject for the afternoon's program was "Modern Plays and Playwrights", using Eugene O'Neill's modern play, "Mourning Becomes Electra."

Mrs. R. A. Clanton interestingly presented the life of Eugene O'Neill. O'Neill is almost unique among modern dramatic writers in his conception of what a tragedy should be. "Mourning Becomes Electra" by Eugene O'Neill is a modern conception of the old Greek tragedies.

As the title suggests, the fable follows almost incident for incident the original story.

Although O'Neill has placed the setting for his play in New England just after the Civil War, his Clytemnestra murders Agamemnon and his Electra of this play persuades Orestes to bring about the death of their common mother.

Mrs. Spivey Kent in her most efficient manner gave in detail this tragic drama. Miss Flo Anderson one of Grenada's amateur dramatics delighted us with a humorous reading, entitled, "At the Soda Fountain."

The club was very fortunate in having Miss Pearl Sneed who is Executive Secretary of Mississippi, come to this meeting and present the state's plan for "Enlistment of Libraries."

Her talk was very interesting and instructive, especially emphasizing a Library as an agency in adult education.

The Twentieth Century Club is directly responsible for the existence of Grenada's Public Library. In its further advancement, much will depend upon the co-operative citizenship of the community.

At the close of the program the hostesses served delicious peach sherbet and chicken salad sandwiches to a fair representative members of the club and the following guests: Mesdames W. F. Martin, Dick Smith, Earle Johnston, Miss Augusta Beatty, Flo Anderson and Miss Pearl Sneed, of Jackson, Miss.

Miss Robbie Sam Clanton left Saturday for Holcomb, where she is to teach in the Holcomb school this year.

For Baby's Sake

The expectant or nursing mother needs 2 to 4 times the normal supply of iron, also extra Calcium, because these vital elements are drained from her blood to build baby's flesh and bone. To prevent Simple Anemia, with its frequent headaches and loss of strength at this critical time, extra Iron and Calcium may be supplied by a special diet. Besides this, doctors usually prescribe medicinal iron such as found in a readily soluble and acceptable form in

JAYNE'S TONIC PILLS Combined with special aids to promote greater absorption of the needed iron-rich foods. 75c

ELEPHANTS REFUSE TOBACCO

The old school reader story of elephants becoming angry if given tobacco has been refuted by several elephants known to be very fond of the weed, but the herd trained by Miss Daisy Sperry, with the Jack Hoxie Circus are total abstainers. However, they will present the most remarkable elephant act ever seen in this city when the Jack Hoxie Circus comes to Grenada Saturday, September 18.

One Variety

There will possibly be more seed saved this year than usual as more farmers may have good varieties.

The Rural Resettlement farmers have planted Delta Pine and Land Co. No. 11, one of the top varieties, Mr. Williams, of the company thinks that it is as good as grown.

In tests made in Louisiana varieties grown at Delta Pine and Land Co. farms, Stoneville showed a much higher average than any other varieties tested in Louisiana. No bigger boon to the cotton grower than the expert plant breeder. Mr. Willis states that at least $10 more per bale can be counted on when the best seed are used in planting.

Mr. J. D. Moss, accompanied his daughter, Miss Beulah Moss to Columbus Monday, where she will be a student at M. S. C. W.

FEW EDITORIALS THIS WEEK

We ask our readers to get along this week with a minimum of editorials. We have been short of help all week. Our Mr. Horn, linotype operator, has been confined at home all week under doctor's orders. Our Mr. Greenfield was not on the job Monday, that being one of his religious holidays. We can get Harry to work anytime except on one of these days. However, he has never offered to work on New Year's Day or Christmas.

BLACK-TOPPING URGED

Before stable prosperity can come to Grenada we must have good roads leading to Grenada from every direction. Highway No. 7 has been black-topped from Holly Springs south to Bryant. We urge the Grenada County Chamber of Commerce to take the matter up with the State Highway Department and insist that they continue black-topping No. 7 to where it intersects highway 51 just north of town. This road is in good condition north from Bryant and much trade is going to other communities that would otherwise come to Grenada if this road was black-topped from Bryant to highway 51.

This is not a matter in which only the Chamber of Commerce should be interested. Every merchant in Grenada should be interested in this project.

Winter Cover Crops And One Variety Cotton Discussed At Farmer Meet

J. K. M.

Two pioneers of the Extension Force had charge of a meeting at the Grenada Theatre last Saturday. There were two subjects, winter cover crops and one variety cotton. Mr. E. B. Ferris is now with the Holly Springs Experiment Station. He headed the first Experiment Station ever established in the State. It was at McNeill in South Mississippi. He succeeded Mr. Ames, who has left a lasting impression upon agricultural progress in the State. He was a leader for years in the attack on soil erosion and the planting of crops to cover the land in the winter season to prevent soil erosion and to enrich it.

Mr. Ferris is a worthy successor, and you will do well to submit your problems to him. Better still, go and visit him at the Station. It will be well worth your while.

Mr. Willis, a Grenada countian, was for a long time associate director of Extension. Mr. Willis is representing the extension force in the planting of one variety of cotton. It is a great field of usefulness and he should get fine response from the farmers of this county in making improvement upon the kind of cotton they grow. They used a talking picture to illustrate the winter cover crop. A silent movie told the story of the one variety idea. There was a very good audience. The morning hour is not so good to attract farmers to a meeting. They showed splendid interest.

The talking picture was made in Louisiana in the level alluvial soils familiar to our delta country. Mr. Willis explained that it was not exactly applicable to our condition in the hills. It was a big scale farming, far different from that of this area. Tractors were used to do the plowing. The story of the work done by Mr. Howard Stovall, of Coahoma county, was impressive. It was given in figures by Mr.

Ferris. I cannot give exact figures, but as we remember it, the year before he began using winter cover crops, the 1200 acres averaged 287 pounds of lint cotton per acre. The average after four years of winter cover crop averaged 585 pounds of lint cotton per acre.

Mr. Ferris discussed the variety of winter legumes best suited to our section. He says that we have a southern winter burr clover that is native. He stated that he had a farm in Warren county where burr clover has grown for several years. On his farm in Oktibbeha county, where his wife was reared, he has been sweeping up seed, saving many thousand pounds.

He also emphasized the importance of hop clover, but especially emphasized that it must be grazed to prevent heavy growth that would destroy the lespedeza. He says that the burr clover used in the Delta section is of more vigorous growth and the seed are expensive. He said that a hill farmer should start in a small way, grow the clover and save his seed.

The chart used showed the amount of seed planted in Louisiana about three years ago. One county alone, Sunflower, planted more burr clover seed than the entire State of Louisiana. The use of a Louisiana picture was not because they are taking greater interest and sowing more cover crops, but the Department of Agriculture made the picture there and they did not have one of the work being done in the Delta.

Mr. Willis called attention to the great value of soy beans being planted in sections where stock run out during the winter. The one great draw back in the hill country is the stock that run loose during the winter season. The silent movie told the story of John Doe the scareless farmer, who takes no interest in the growing of one variety cotton seed but he takes his seed to the gin to be mixed

Miss Martha McCormac, of Coffeeville, is the happy guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Bell Trussell this week.

Those from Grenada who attended the opening exercises of school were Dr. T. J. Brown, Editor W. W. Whitaker and Supt. O. D. Spratlin and wife. From Duck Hill were Rev. and Mrs. B. S. Potts. Upon arriving everybody enjoyed a social hour after which Supt. Eugene McGahey called the meeting to order and made a brief talk. Then Rev. Potts, Dr. T. J. Brown, Supt. O. D. Spratlin and Rev. Huffstatter all brought fine messages to the people which was greatly enjoyed. At the noon hour a fine picnic dinner was spread on the campus. This a day which both parents and pupils enjoyed and appreciate having other friends partake of this pleasure.

Mrs. L. B. Dayton, of Greenwood, was a guest in the home of Mrs. Bell Trussell through the past week-end.

Attention: Football Fans

There are more big country boys in high school than heretofore. Several of these sturdy chaps want to play football but have no way to get home after practice. This difficulty is experienced every year, and some mighty fine country boys who would make good football material never get the opportunity. Some of them go out anyway and walk five, six or seven miles home each evening. Many with the better seed of the community gradually bringing down the average. It indicates that about 25 percent of the seed get mixed with the first bale of cotton ginned.

I did not get to hear all of the talk by Mr. Willis so cannot give a complete outline of what he said. There is no better time than right now to save pure bred seed right here in the county to be sold at prices less than they can be bought from growers at a distance.

THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE

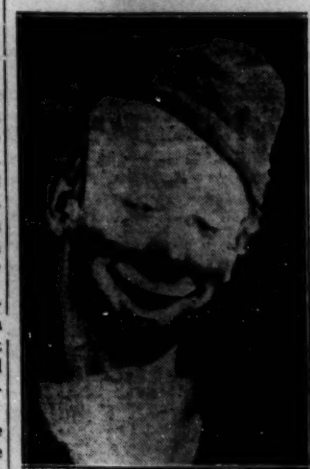

Some kind of a battle seems to be goin' on just about everywhere, and right here in the U. S. the paper it says, that war has been declared on the Senators. And the Senators the war is called on, they call 'em rebels. And they are rebels because they didn't say, yes sir, to the boss. So they are going to eliminate this type of person.

And the side tryin' to eliminate the Senators, they have plenty of guns, but lots of them are pop-guns and squirt guns. But the really big guns, they just keep on shootin' up in the air, and people are not payin' so much attention to them, any more. And it is something like when you watch roman candles and rockets go up with a hiss and a loud pop—and then go out, and after awhile you get tired of the noise.

And in this Senate war, I would not want to be on the other side, and tackle some of these senate rebels, bare-handed, for they have backbone and are smart ducks. And when it comes to votin' they are the kind of hombres the people like.

Yours, with the low down,
JO SERRA.

State Auditor Carl N. Craig, gave out a comparative statement, a few days ago of the receipts of the Auto Tax Division of the Auditor's Department for 1935, 1936 and for the first six months of 1937, that is quite interesting. The total collections for the year 1935 amounted to, in round numbers, $1,732,000.00; in 1936, the total collected amounted to $1,980,000.00, an increase of $248,000.00, or approximately 15 per cent over the preceding year. The greatest percentage of increase in these collections comes for the first six months of this year, the collections for this period amounting to $2,133,000.00. For these six months the collections were $456,000.00 more than for the entire year of 1935, and $208,000.00 more than for entire year of 1936. Mr. Craig states that with normal collections for the final six months of 1937, the increase for this year will run considerably more than a half-million dollars over 1935, and he further calls attention to the fact that the auto division has been operated with the same force and without additional appropriation.

State Health officials state that the total number of polio cases reported in Mississippi for this year is 281, and the state's death toll from the disease has been held down to 29. Last year, when infantile paralysis became prevalent in Mississippi, the total number of cases for the year was 138, with total deaths reaching 20. This was about 14 1/2 per cent of deaths.

There are eighty-three cases, or petitions, docketed for consideration or hearing by the Mississippi Railroad Commission at its regular September meeting which will convene in the New Capitol on Tuesday, September 7th. These cases or petitions are too numerous to mention here in detail, however, in the main, they consist of gravel and other commodity freight, petitions for the establishment of bus lines, and fixing of intra-state rates.

The fall term of the Mississippi Supreme Court will open in the New Capitol on the Second Monday of September, and according to custom of long standing the first day will be observed as memorial day, on which date appropriate ceremonies will be held in memory of deceased members of the bar of Mississippi, who have died within the past year. Twelve cases have been set for Tuesday, September 14, and the docket is also heavy for Wednesday, September 15th. Supreme Court Clerk, Tom Q. Ellis, states that the docket for the entire fall term is heavy this year.

According to Director St. Corley, of the State Game and Fish Commission, the Commission of this State and the Louisiana Conservation Department have perfected a mutual pact or agreement to rid Eagle Lake of all alligators, gars, turtles and other predatory fish the program for such riddance to commence at once and last through December. Director Corley says he is going to make Eagle Lake the "Fisherman's Paradise."

Considering that we are just emerging from what is usually considered the dull season of the year, charters of incorporation are coming in pretty fast in the Secretary of State's office, resembling the old time record of the '20s and '30s.

During the past six weeks there have been 55 domestic or state charters recorded in the office of the secretary of state, and 20 foreign charters filed here for corporations in other states who have qualified to do business in Mississippi by complying with the corporation laws of this state.

These 55 state charters have a total authorized capital of $2,998,750.00, and the 20 foreign or out of state charters show an authorized capital of $146,443,000.00, and this is an exceedingly fine record for that period of time. Some three or four domestic charters are of outstanding importance as to amount of capital, to wit: The Industrial Investment Company of Jackson, with an authorized capital of $75,000.00; Farm Products Sales

Association, Inc., capital increased $900,000.00; North American Insurance Company, Jackson, with a capital of $50,000.00, and the Cotton States Portland Cement Co., Jackson, with an authorized capital of $1,500,000.00.

Some of the largest foreign corporations qualifying, are the United Gas Corporation, Delaware, Capital $20,000,000.00; Mountain City Mill Co., of Tennessee, capital increased $900,000.00; Southern Bell Telephone and Telephone Co., Delaware, capital increased $110,000,000.00; Crusader Petroleum Inc., Delaware, capital increased $13,000,000.00; and the McCrory Stores, Inc., Delaware, capital increased $1,250,000.00.

As I have stated before in these news letters when commenting on authorized capital of foreign corporations, this does not mean that all this capital will be employed in Mississippi, but it simply means that these large corporations apply for a charter under the laws of one of the states, then as they grow, they desire to branch out and operate in other states—hence they have to qualify in these states, and may use just as much of the capital in each state as their operations require.

As additional evidence that Mississippi and her opportunities, resources, and advantages, are attracting favorable attention of the people all over the Nation, the Secretary of State has received from an announcer on a prominent New York City radio broadcasting station, a request for a copy of the Mississippi Blue Book, and to be placed on the mail list for all information concerning the Magnolia State. "I frequently receive questions about Mississippi, and want to be able to answer them correctly," stated the writer of this letter, "and would be pleased to receive any bulletins and press releases concerning your state."

Judge Sid C. Mize, Federal Judge for the Southern District of Mississippi, opened federal court in Jackson August 30th, this being a recess meeting to dispose of certain business carried over from the last regular court.

The regular September meeting of the Mississippi State Bar Commissioners will be held in Jackson at 10 o'clock a. m. Friday, September 10th. In addition to the seventeen state bar commissioners—one from each judicial district—the meeting will also be attended by Judge Marion Reilly, of Meridian, president; Judge Garland Lyell, of Jackson, first vice-president; and Judge Hugh Clayton, of New Albany, second vice-president.

Governor and Mrs. White and the department force, who have sojournd at the summer capital at Biloxi during the month of August, returned to Jackson on August 31 and the Governor has resumed his duties back in the executive chamber, and is hard down to business.

From a statement given out by State Treasurer Newton James on September 1, the State of Mississippi seems to be getting along pretty well financially. Mr. James states that August revenues exceeded disbursements by approximately $200,000.00, and that the month of August ended with a balance in the general fund of $5,174,547.49, while the special funds account of the treasurer was not available when this statement was given out. The major disbursements of last month included, in round numbers, $990,000 as the first allotment to the public schools for this school year; the colleges received $87,000; old age assistance $75,000; and Confederate pensions $37,000.

The 3400 mile overland parade of the American Legion floats from Mississippi will leave Jackson on the morning of Friday, September 9th, headed by Major Smylie Shipman, vice state commander and personal representative of State Commander Adrian Boyd. Accompanying the caravan will be Ed Lipscomb, director of the Mississippi Advertising Commission, and Miss Elaine Russell, the charming Oxford girl who has been selected as "Miss American Legion," and who will lead the big parade in New York City as the personal representative of Governor White will head the overland good-will parade to New York.

The first floats from Mississippi will portray the old and the new Magnolia State, depicting history, recreation, dairying, cotton growing, and industrial development, and the Caravan trip to New York will include overnight stops at Montgomery, Atlanta, Columbia, Raleigh, Richmond, Annapolis and Trenton.

PLANNING PARAGRAPHS

(By Roben L. Parson, Land Planner, State Planning Commission.)

(Editor's Note: This is the seventh installment in a series of brief articles dealing with planning toward Mississippi's permanent prosperity submitted by the State Land Planner.)

Transformation of Master Plan Into Official Program

Without official acceptance and application a plan is scarcely worth the paper it is written on. The hopes of the planner are with the legislator and the people he represents.

Henry W. Toll in an address delivered to the National Planning conference, Detroit, June 2, 1937, stated the idea so nicely that we wish to quote:

"The painter hopes that his picture will be hung. The architect hopes that his castle in Spain will become a reality in some more stable vintage. The author hopes that his manuscript will be published."

"And the planner hopes that his plan will be followed."

"For an unfulfilled plan has approximately the same social value as an unhung canvas, an unbuilt mansion, or a mouse-eaten manuscript."

A master plan, or a skeleton plan for development, should include a summary of actual conditions and an outline of ways and means by which they may be improved. It should properly be a plan of organization for applied planning.

The initial, or Master Plan should present general facts and conclusions such as a delimitation of natural regions and a description of major problems in each. It should set forth a recommended division into planning units, county or regional, and suggest their modes of organization and procedure.

A master plan for a State, besides outlining its feasible organization into units for direct, applied planning, should include a statement of problems with state-wide significance and recommendations for their solution.

Among apparent needs in Mississippi the following take first rank: (1) revision of taxation to promote proper land utilization, (2) policy governing use or disposition of state-owned land, (3) policy governing establishment of new basic manufactures and con-

MISSISSIPPI FARM NEWS

Reports from county agents throughout the state indicate that losses to cotton farmers from weather damage, delayed picking and poor ginning will run into millions of dollars. Tests made by the Federal Cotton Ginning Laboratory at Stoneville showed that ginning cotton wet damaged short staple as much as $1.50 per bale and long staple as much as $7 per bale.

Improved practices in handling and ginning seed cotton will improve the quality of the lint and bring better prices to cotton farmers. Farmers can promote good ginning by furnishing the ginner with cotton in good ginning condition. They can also demand that the ginner use ginning methods that will best preserve lint quality. Such action will make it possible to obtain a higher price and promote greater utilization of cotton.

If seed cotton is too moist because of greenness or exposure to rain or dew, in clear weather it may be spread on sacks, tarpaulins, or galleries four to eight inches deep from 12 to 20 hours, depending on the amount of moisture in the cotton, the length of the staple, the temperature and humidity of the atmosphere and other factors.

With all that there is being said and written about the 9-cent loan, one not informed would think that every cotton farmer would be doomed to failure if he did not obtain a cotton loan. The loan can help the farmer only if cotton goes below 9 cents a pound.

The total hog production of all the southern states is less than that of Iowa alone, and the commercial production of all the south is only about 6 percent of the national total against 74.8 percent for the corn belt. Obviously, southern farmers have not taken over any considerable part of the northern farmers' hog market as opponents of the AAA gloomily predicted back in 1933.

Pork used in the home is worth what it would cost at the market, while that produced for sale is worth what it will bring, usually, on foot. Between these values usually there is a difference of 30 to 50 percent. That is the main reason why the production of hogs to meet home needs for meat and lard is almost always profitable. The good farmer can raise his meat cheaper than he can buy it.

On a visit to the Florida Experiment Station we were told by competent authorities that three-fourths of the Tung trees in that state never have and never will pay a profit. The trees are either barren or light bearing trees. We saw fine looking trees 23 years old being chopped down because they have not paid. Unfortunately producers in Florida and Mississippi went into Tung Oil production before sound practices had been determined. They planted trees without regard to the fruitfulness of the parent tree, without knowledge of suitable soils while many have failed to practice proper methods of cultivation and fertilization. We saw whole orchards practically dead as a result of being planted on wet lands. The Extension Service will publish a bulletin on Tung oil production at an early date which will give farmers the truth about this new enterprise and it is hoped that this information will save them much money.

A new provision of the Farm Credit Act of 1937 permits farmers to make advanced payments on Federal Land Bank and Commissioner loans and authorizes payment of interest on money deposited for future installments. This provision will enable farmers to accumulate money during good years to take care of their mortgage debt requirements during poor years.

"County agents and home demonstration agents have grown powerful in influence because they carry honest, unbiased and accurate information to the people they serve," says an editorial in Southern Agriculturist (August). "And along with profitable information, they carry hope and inspiration to the farm. These workers have grown strong because they teach rural people to help themselves through the use of better methods and cooperative effort. They help farm people to see farther, think more clearly and act in the light of facts which they help to gather and interpret. The farmer who looked askance at extension workers 20 years ago, now seldom undertake any major matter affecting his home or his farming without consulting those trained advisers and leaders. They have become a potent influence in rural life that will compare favorably with the inventor, the teacher and the press. The extension agent is now widely recognized as one who knows what to do about local farm problems."

These same foreigners were loaned money to buy goods and restore their own stricken countries. They kept buying as long as this money held out but at pay time we wanted the cash not goods.

It is a question of lowering tariff walls and resuming trade with other countries or continue to subsidize taking from one group to subsidize another group and that is fair unless the big manufacturer will aid in taking off a few bricks from the tariff wall.

In 1933-34 America's share of the cotton sales was $2,227,000; in 1934-35 foreign share 13,959,000; United States share 5,985,000; 1935-36 foreign share 14,962,000; and United States share 6,318,000; 1937-38 foreign share 17,500,000; United States share 8,400,000 bales. Like it or not that is the picture.

Congressman A. L. Ford will be here Thursday and will have spoken before the paper is published. He is going out to ask what the farmers want. That is easy, they want markets at profitable prices. They want unlimited production. They will have to be as the farmers did at one meeting.

King Edward fell in love with an American woman and gave up the throne for the sake of love. Once cotton ruled as King in the South. The farmers loved its growing too well, grew too much for sale abroad and that is what is making farmers and creditors worry.

Our readers had just as well know what are some of the underlying causes for the King Cotton to have lost the throne. Buyers do not want King Cotton abroad so he must stay at home. Just the opposite with King Edward they did not want him at home but the foreigners have been willing to receive him.

The above is a story in figures. In 1932-33 American Production of cotton was 13,000,000 foreign production was 10,000,000, foreign production has sky rocketed from this low figure until this year the record United States production stands 15,500,000 and foreign production reaches the high figure of 19,000,000.

An error in our cotton article last week in which it was stated that Brazil burned 4,000,000 pounds of cotton. She burned coffee not cotton for the past ten months she has sold 741,800 bales. A cotton revolution is on. Editor Jones, County Agent Cooley and I had a three cornered argument this week about the 3 cent subsidy. I upheld it knowing that foreign competition is such that we are being put out of the running. We must at the rate we are going consume all of our cotton at home and that means ruin to the South.

Our argument is that we have not tried the principles of the McNary Haugen bill of having one price at home and another abroad. After this plan is tried and if found wanting we must of necessity do away with control programs.

There are many conditions that bring about the new change. We have alienated foreign markets by our high tariff that prohibited goods from foreign countries from being imported into this country. One writer puts it that is "One reason these foreign buyers are shifting business is because they do not want to become caught in a market in which price and production are dominated by government."

We were before the war a creditor nation. We sold our goods because our creditors wanted to collect. Foreign countries owe us and we have refused to accept goods in payment and have encouraged hard feeling. They say they have no money therefore they will not pay.

We are now a creditor nation and instead of permitting farmers to sell in our markets and get credits on our debts we build a wall and make them keep their goods at home.

These same foreigners were loaned money to buy goods and restore their own stricken countries. They kept buying as long as this money held out but at pay time we wanted the cash not goods.

It is a question of lowering tariff walls and resuming trade with other countries or continue to subsidize taking from one group to subsidize another group and that is fair unless the big manufacturer will aid in taking off a few bricks from the tariff wall.

Cotton Seed Prices On Toboggan

J. K. M.
And here is another fly in the farmer's ointment. We use the clipping from the Chicago Board of Trade:

Soybean Review
Chicago, Sept. 1.—Favoring crop conditions have continued over the soybean areas and current indications are for the biggest crop on record. Some sections would be benefited by generous rains, but on the whole the moisture situation is favorable.

Trading in futures has been moderate in volume, but there has been a decided increase in the open interest in December and May beans, while the October trade has been extremely light. No major move was shown in prices.

No. 2 yellow beans were quoted about 1c under October to arrive. For November and December shipment beans were quoted December price to a little under.

Meal and oil prices were not much changed from last week, there having been no substantial prices for beans. Meal for October-November shipment was quoted around $7.00 per ton at Chicago and oil was about 6c.

Farmers are amazed when they come to market with their cotton seed to find that they are so low in price. That is what helps make times better for the merchants and the rest of us. Most of the cotton money is due credit agencies for money borrowed to make the crop. Cotton seed supplies a little surplus money for the farmers to buy necessities.

They are surprised at the tumble in prices and the general tendency these days is to spread the propaganda that the farmers have no friends, that everybody is robbing him. Wall Street is generally charged with depressing the price. They got the boys pretty well tied up there by a piece of legislation designed to curb speculation and it has been working.

Cotton seed now has a real competitor. The north has become a competitor of the south in the production of oil. The meal from the soy bean is being thrown on the market in the north to compete with our cotton seed meal.

There is going to be a big crop of cotton and that means an overage of seed.

We are not trying to cast a shadow but you just as well be fortified with the facts and know just what is causing all of the trouble. The thing that we are urging is that we are going to have a big surplus of cotton seed meal. There is ample money available on good collateral. Why not hold some of your cattle, borrow some money, buy a few more to feed and put some prime cattle on the market. Feed your home grown feeds right at home and get the benefit of a sale thru live stock. Your county agent is willing to advise with you. Your banks will cooperate with you. Cattle is still high because they are scarce. They will be in good demand this winter.

They will leave that nut to him to crack. I would just about as soon trust Oscar Johnston to chart the course as any one else. Most of us want what we can get right now, to the bow vows with the future. We face conditions that give us pause and we had just well take stock and see where we are. We are going toward the bottom in cotton sales. The foreigners are capturing the trade. At the rate we are going we will have to consume all of our cotton at home. This will have been in type before we hear Mr. Ford if we have that opportunity.

We congratulate him that he wants to come and have a round table discussion with the boys that hired him. The experts at Washington differ as to the way out. We have made a blaze through the forest but it is difficult to find our way back for it looks as if we must retreat. Evidently we are on the wrong road and we must credit it the administration for doing all in its power to help the farmers.

No doubt that subsidies as they have been paid have given the patient colic. We are hunting for a cure and hope that Mr. Ford will have the remedy. If he has we will vote for him to stay at Washington always and be retired on a pension when his days of usefulness are over with.

The Cotton Situation A Stumbling Block to Winter Cover Crop

J. K. M.
We contacted a man who travels the highways and by-ways of Mississippi and asked that he give us the low-down on this whole cotton situation. He did, and all know that we have some worthwhile information for those interested in cotton, and that means just about all of us. We are waiting eagerly to see the financial wheels turn and the commodity that turns them is cotton.

When the rains descend and the floods come, when cotton is white unto harvest you may look for tears in the eyes of those who plant it. This whole cotton situation is still in a jumble. What to do about it few can suggest. One expert says one thing, one says another. Just who to follow we do not know. We deal with the present situation. This friend said he was in central Mississippi. A bale of cotton ginned on a new gin was brought to market. The banker had the sample. No one would bid on this cotton. A sample was sent to a pickery in New Orleans, and you know what he was offered, five and one-quarter cents per pound.

The bid on cotton at other points is seven cents. The cause of this is picking and ginning while the cotton is wet. Cotton, says my informant, would bring 9 cents per pound that looks bad, but remember the subsidy of 3 cents.

The damage is not so bad to cotton as we had thought, no expert are we, but we thought the damage would run 25 per cent, says my friend, about 10 per cent damage. That is a silver lining.

Here is a cloud, cotton seed he states, have sustained the worse damage. He estimates about 25 per cent.

Here is the copy of a letter from a group of ginner to Mr. J. C. Holton:

"Due to continued rains in our territory we respectfully ask that you advise the producers of cotton to discontinue picking until it can dry out, you know gins cannot possibly gin cotton and make a good sample when cotton is wet." Cotton seed are running mighty high in moisture and are grading off from two to five dollars per ton. The producers are also getting docked for cut cotton. Believing seed to be dried out, we are asking that you plead with the farmers by radio, newspapers, or any other method you see fit to leave their cotton in the field and get a few days' sunshine on it before it is picked.

The best way to permit cotton to dry is in the original package, the boll. It will dry there far better than in a cotton house.

J. K. M.
And it is a big one. For years we have permitted our stock the run of the fields. Few farmers are fenced against cattle and hogs. That means a neighbor who would like to cooperate in the winter cover crop, program cannot do so because his neighbors stock run in the fields all of the winter.

It is true that stock help make their way up until Christmas in the fields but there is almost nothing after that time. We will never make any progress growing live stock unless we learn to grow feed to care for the cattle during the winter season.

Hogs run at large and do far more damage than they are worth. It is against the law to permit stock to run at large but since almost no one obeys it, it is difficult to make a change.

It can only be done by farmers getting together and coming to an agreement to take their stock up the first of January.

If the majority will do this it will not be long before they can influence the minority to join with them.

Farmers who are really in the stock business trying to build a good herd are perfectly willing to abide by this rule. It is the farmer with a few head that will be difficult to get into such a program.

One Variety of Cotton

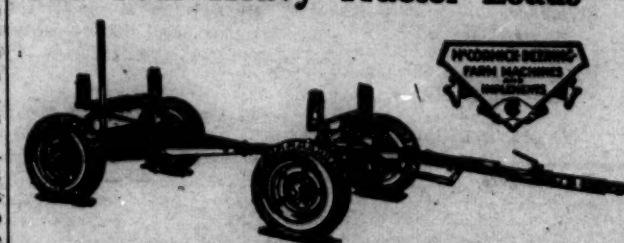

J. K. M.
We need to stir the farmers of Grenada county to form the biggest club agreed to raise one variety of cotton than any other county in the state in proportion to the farmers of the county. Now is the time to create interest and get membership. We know that Mr. Willis will take whatever steps that are necessary to make Grenada a one variety county.

They have made far better progress in South Mississippi than we have in this area. The vocational teachers have taken a great lead in this work and have shown some fine results.

A one variety county wide club is what would do some good.

We are advised that the board for the cooperatives will soon make a decision as to the opening of the cold storage and warehouse. A matter that will possibly be brought to the attention of the Legislature at its next session is how far these warehouses are to be operated. They will decide whether they are warehouses to store farm products or sales places to compete with private business.

CLARION ANDREWS
HAVE CONSOLIDATED

partnership with Mr. J. R. Preston the Hedermans had a printing office on the creek. There were many vacant lots from the group of stores near the old capitol building to those down near the depot.

We knew Col. Henry well and counted him one of my good friends at Jackson.

I have known Mr. Johnston and Major Sullens for a long, long time. Both papers have grown with Jackson and we hope for them continued growth in the years to come.

My good friend Mr. Robert Hederman is not actively associated with the running of the Clarion. He runs the printing company.

I am going to illustrate just the kind of a man he is by an incident told me by our neighbor, Mr. Elsie Denley. He said he was in Jackson and met him on the street. He invited him to attend dinner with him at the Kiwanis club.

He asked Mr. Hederman if he knew of any one going over to Clinton. Says he, yes, I am going and have been looking for some good friend that I could take along with me. So after the dinner he drove Mr. Denley to Clinton and advised whenever he was in Jackson always come around to see him and he had some time each day he could devote to his friends.

He had no business in Clinton. Just a busy man who wanted to do a good turn for a friend.

We have known Mr. Vaughn Watkins for a long time. The fact that he as minority stockholder will control the new organization is tribute enough to his fairness.

We are glad that the change is in the nature of a consolidation and that the papers do not change to non residents of Jackson.

Men who love Jackson and believe in Mississippi are still in control of the Clarion and the News.

Riverdale H. D. Club
Met On September 2

On September 2nd Riverdale Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Ernest Statten. Present were eleven members and three visitors. Visitors being Temple Hayward, Mrs. Edd Brunson and Mrs. Ernest Betz, whom we enjoyed having with us. After the president, Mrs. E. L. Boteler, called the meeting to order the roll was called and minutes read by the secretary, Mrs. Georgia Statten. Discussed her trip to Mississippi State College during "Farm and Home" week as the club representative. Mrs. W. N. Hayward and Mrs. Ernest Statten who won the trip to Farm and Home week also expressed a very joyous, as well as instructive week spent there. Mrs. Boteler urged each to get their poultry report ready before Achievement Day. Miss Wood discussed the Ball and Kerr contest and asked each to bring an exhibit of five jars of fruit and vegetables to the October meeting. She complimented Mrs. W. N. Hayward on receiving a high score in the Budget and Record Judging Contest at State College. Bulletins of "State Fair", "Pork on Farm" and on "Dry Cleaning" were distributed by Miss Wood. She also showed an embroidered pillow case and dresser set and gave out designs of each.

An article on "Food for Thought" was read by Miss Wood. A contest on Labor Day was enjoyed. Temple Hayward was winner, the prize being a measuring cup. Hostess served delicious home made ice cream and cookies. Mrs. Ernest Betz joined the club. We are very glad to have her. Meeting next month to be with Mrs. C. A. Perry, and each are to bring their Individual Record books.

Rotary Dinner
Held At Duck Hill

The Grenada Rotary Club journeyed to Duck Hill Tuesday to mingle with the business men and good ladies of that village.

Dinner was served at the school house at 7 p. m. by the Women's Club. The spread was bountiful and was enjoyed by all.

A short talk was delivered by John Rundle on the objects of Rotary. Superintendent Everett Aldridge, of the Duck Hill Schools, welcomed the club and expressed hope that they would pay them a another visit.

Dr. S. B. Caruthers had arranged for the club's visit to Duck Hill and words of appreciation were tendered him by John Pressgrove, who was in charge of the program.

Success of Efforts to Save Lives in Mississippi Is Enormous Gain to State

The success of efforts to save lives in Mississippi is an enormous financial gain to the state according to Dr. Felix J. Underwood, state health officer. Stating that the business of public health always pays, Dr. Underwood explained that it deals with the most valuable asset of the state or nation—human lives.

"What promotes health, prevents illness, and postpones death is a saving of life capital, a conserving of economic resources too great to be ignored—almost too stupendous to be estimated," the health officer said.

For the country as a whole, conservative figures indicate that disease control measures during the past generation have decreased typhoid fever 75 per cent, smallpox almost 100 per cent, diphtheria 90 per cent, and tuberculosis 50 per cent. These accomplishments together with the fact that the average span of life is now 16 years longer than 50 years ago indicate the great worth of organized health.

In the Mississippi success of efforts against disease has been heartening. While one in every five "hookworm" today, every other person in the state had the disease in 1914. Typhoid fever still claims needless victims, but cases have dropped from 6,035 in 1916 to 388 in 1936. The punch has been taken from the killing blows of malaria though it remains a widespread disease. In 1916, 1426 deaths resulted from malaria in the state. Twenty years later the number was reduced to 352.

Control of other communicable diseases has also been stressed. In 1918 there were 2708 tuberculosis deaths in Mississippi. Because of education about the disease and Sanatorium treatment for scores of active cases, deaths decreased to an all time low of 1135 in 1935. That deaths have increased more than 100 in the short space of a year is evidence aplenty of the danger in curtailing Sanatorium facilities.

Steady progress has been made in other lines of effort. Within only the past decade diphtheria has been reduced 50 per cent; pellagra 62 per cent; and puerperal septicemia and eclampsia, conditions of childbirth, have decreased 29 per cent. When deaths are prevented by hundreds, cases of disease by thousands each year in Mississippi the enormous value of public health is readily apparent.

Paul De Kruff, well known health writer says, "As our people, all of them, the mass of them from top to bottom, have it demonstrated to them that their whole death fight is basically a matter of common-sense bookkeeping, of true economy, won't they then be ready for the first hesitating step toward a new way of human living? How will they escape this stern conclusion: That every form of human suffering, misery, heartbreak, is wasteful?"

"... People are saying goodbye to the old penny-pinching that kills. They are on the march to prove that it costs us money to die. And if it costs a lot of money to die, then why shouldn't we spend a little to live?"

THE EVER POPULAR CIRCUS
ENTERTAINMENT WILL BE REVIVED HERE VERY SOON

Arrangements have been completed for the exhibition of the Jack Hoxie Circus in Grenada, Saturday, September 18.

This is one of those three ring affairs where the spectator is afraid he is not seeing it all and after the performance is over he will probably see some children who saw a great deal more than he did. Being the newest big circus to take to the road, the Hoxie Circus makes a beautiful showing on the show grounds, everything from the outmost stake to the center pole being new and especially built for this show.

Being a real western hero of the plains as well as a popular star of western films, Hoxie has seen to it that his circus is practically an "all American Circus" showing that Americans do carry off the honors in the circus field just as they win most of the honors in the Olympic contests. Not a week passes but that amateur performers are given a chance to demonstrate their ability and occasionally one secures a contract from Hoxie.

Never was a time when the Western novel, Western magazine and Western film was as popular as the present and consequently, scores of children and some adult women and children find Jack Hoxie's private quarters in the rear of the circus daily to secure his autograph and to meet this real and genuine cow-boy. If not too busy Jack also introduces his friends to his beautiful horse "Scout", also a hero of the pictures.

The Value Of Discipline

If a thing is to be done and done right, there must be discipline. Not only the discipline of obedience, but that discipline of automatically doing one's duty at command—whether that command comes from inner conscience or outer compulsion. A recent event has argued this theory well.

You recall the circumstances the night of the exploding Hindenburg plummeted from the skies at the Lakehurst Naval Air Station. Sailors and civilians of the ground crew ran from under the burning hulk for their lives. They ran, but as they ran there rang through the tragic night the voice of Chief Boatwain's Mate Frederick J. Tobin:

"Navy men stand fast!"

Such is the power of discipline that one man's voice ringing out in the horrified dark stopped and turned the ground crew as a man. Through the flames playing along the crumpled Hindenburg's frame, Chief Tobin led them back.

"Navy men stand fast!" When it was all over, they were blistered and burned. But they had heard their duty and, being discipline men, had done it.

The Army Wants
500 Doughboys For Service In Panama

Major General George Van Horn Moseley, Commanding the Fourth Corps Area, states that he has just received another call from the War Department for 500 more Southern boys for service in the Infantry in Panama.

On August 27, 1937, 515 young Southern boys were embarked on a transport at Charleston, S. C., destined for Panama for service in practically all of the Arms and Services. The 500 young men enlisting in the present campaign will probably sail from Charleston, S. C. on September 27, 1937. Upon arrival in Panama they will be assigned to either Fort Davis or Fort Clayton, the two posts in the Panama Canal Zone garrisoned with Infantry troops.

The 14th Infantry, commanded by Colonel John L. Jenkins, of West Virginia, is stationed on the Atlantic side of the isthmus at Ft. Davis. On the Pacific side the 33rd Infantry under command of Colonel Charles F. Severson, a native of Illinois, is located at Ft. Clayton.

An enlistment in the Regular Army today offers many attractive advantages for the young man undecided as to his future. Schools and shops are maintained where the wide-awake young soldier may learn a variety of trades which will help him later in life such as radio operator and engineer, auto mechanic and technician, clerk, stenographer, etc. The soldier is taught self reliance, initiative, necessity of maintaining a sound and healthful body and many other things which assist him in attaining success in his chosen work and helping him to be a good citizen.

Early application will insure selection while vacancies exist. Young men interested should bear in mind the following qualifications:

Age, 18 to 35, those between 18 and 21 must have written consent of parents or guardian.

Citizenship—Must be a citizen of the United States.

General Qualifications—Sound health, at least 5' 4" in height and weigh not less than 114 pounds, education equivalent to 8th grade, single with no dependents.

Character—Must be of good character certified to by reputable citizens of his locality.

Those interested are urged to write the nearest Army Posts and Recruiting Stations securing the necessary blank forms and information before leaving their homes.

Fall Gardens Are Indicated; Rains
Facilitate GrowthCrop Damage Cannot be Helped,
but Farmers May "Cash In"
Through Conditions
Favorable to Fall Gardens

Frequent showers and rains over the state, though damaging to cotton and hay crops being harvested, nevertheless bring the silver lining that goes with every cloud, for moisture conditions are better than during any recent year for the planting of fall gardens, writes J. C. Holton, commissioner of agriculture.

Late summer rainfall has been unusually persistent throughout much of Mississippi and the Southeast, resulting in damage to cotton that will increase from day to day as long as continued, the farm commissioner stated. "Yet, insofar as our staple crops are concerned, the farmer's job is done, and we can only hope for favorable weather for harvesting."

"There are other crops that farmers can grow, however, and their importance is enhanced by low-priced cotton and shortage of money. In this group come the fall gardens that should be on every farm. The millions of dollars that we spend every year for food and feed will remain in the hands of Mississippi farmers only when they produce these necessities at home, and the sooner we stop this annual outgo of money that is needed at home, the sooner will come the end of cotton overproduction and the institution of safe and profitable farming."

"So we come to the silver lining of this cloud of too much and too frequent rainfall. The need for fall gardens is understood by most farmers, but there have been numerous disappointments in the past. The limiting factor is moisture, and planting time comes during a period of the year that is usually driest so that the garden is handicapped from the start. Not so this year. Over most of the state there is an abundance of moisture for germination and for giving the tender plants a good start. This year, above any recent year, is indicated for successful fall gardens. "There are numerous vegetables that may be planted now with safe maturity dates. These include the stand-bys of state gardens such as mustard, turnips, spinach, rutabagas, beets, carrots and lettuce. A few cents or a dollar or so invested in these and other seeds to be immediately planted will largely feed the family until mid-winter. There is no better investment."

Rosebloom News

We are having continued rains here which has already damaged cotton. Most all have planted turnips and fall gardens are looking much better.

Our school opened Monday morning. We are hoping for a fine school term this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterlin Mays are the proud parents of a baby boy. This is their second son, and Mr. and Mrs. Leland Whitten are the proud parents of a baby boy, this being their first son.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lane and baby spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Carpenter of Murfreesboro.

Several here attended the revival at Shady Grove which came to a close Sunday night. All report a great revival.

Miss Corrine Lane spent the week-end with Miss Elizabeth Wolfe.

Everyone here has begun cotton picking and are finding the crop much shorter than was expected. Corn is also short due to so much dry weather in the spring.

Mr. Webster Buchanan was the first here to gin a bale of cotton.

We are glad to learn that the infant of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gray is improving at this writing.

Mr. Jerrel Clalinger made a business trip to Clarksdale Tuesday.

Mr. Jim G. Lane has bought a Chevrolet truck.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Powell, of Hardy, were in our community last week.

Farm Security Administration

J. K. M.

Mr. Walter Strider and his associates do not have new jobs but they work for an agency with a new name, Farm Security Administration. Over a year ago Secretary of Agriculture Wallace took over the Rural Resettlement Administration.

The Farm Security Administration is under Dr. Will Alexander and the projects begun by Rural Resettlement will be completed but no new ones will be organized. The main work will be the superintendence of the Farm Tenant program. The Farm Tenant Security Project is the one we are most interested in, and we believe the most practical of the many things undertaken by this agency.

The plan for the tenants is to lease their farms for a period of five years. At the end of the time if the tenants have satisfactorily managed their rented acres, they are given the privilege to buy. The plan is to sell the farms under a 40-year plan with interest at the rate of 3 per cent.

There are Land Purchase and Land Development Divisions. Submarginal lands are being purchased.

ed and the farmers moved to better lands. This will doubtless be continued.

The Land Development work has supplied about 51,000 people with jobs the past year. There are a total of 100 of these projects. Mr. Strider will be about his work as usual for he had just as soon work for the Farm Security Administration as there is not much in a name unless it is a well advertised trade mark, and that some times brings mighty big money.

HOW MUCH CAN YOU SAY
IN 3 MINUTES?

For Example:

Suppose Husband in a distant city calls Wife at home, like this:

Mr: "Hello, darling."
Mrs: "Hello, George. I'm sure glad to hear your voice. How are you getting on with the 'big deal'?"
Mr: "Great. It looks like success in capital letters, and I think the deal will be closed tomorrow."
Mrs: "That's fine, dear. But then, I knew you'd do it. Are you staying at the Governor Hotel?"
Mr: "Yes, and my air-conditioned room is very comfortable. How are the kids in Junior's school better?"
Mrs: "Junior's feeling fine now, and Betty is thrilled over a new red rain suit. When are you coming home?"
Mr: "I'll leave here tomorrow evening, but if my plans have to be changed, I'll call you."
Mrs: "All right. Well, Betty and Junior want to say 'hello' if we have time."

Of course, Betty and Junior will have time to say "hello" to dad, for although 120 words have been spoken—many a question and answer conveyed—about FOUR times as many words can be said in an average three-minute telephone conversation.

The pleasure you will get from talking with a friend or relative in another city—the profit you can add to your business—will far outweigh the small cost of a long distance telephone call. Ask the "Long Distance" operator about the call you want to make. The low cost will please you.
